PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Bray International, Inc.

IT & Data Analytics Summer Intern

Houston, Texas

May 2025 - August 2025

- Developed a proof of concept for cost accounting analysis across global manufacturing and purchasing operations to highlight costing anomalies across sizes within a product family
- Designed and published a PowerBI dashboard, integrated with the company's inventory cube, to visualize live key costing data. The report prioritized groups based on the estimated potential cost impact of costing anomalies based on on hand inventory and purchasing history
- Identified a select case in the USA operating division where on-hand inventory was over-valued by ~$700,000
- The proof of concept application was taken over by the company's IT development team and is now a live production application used by the company's operation teams in the manufacturing divisions across the globe including China and India.
